Ten! Another issue of Oink! that makes fun of famous and respectable people!

I'm sure this will have a good effect on the mental health of the Nation!

RUSSELL GRUNT'S CELEBRITY HOGOSCOPE

This issue's celebrity prediction is for Nobby of Toytown, who is 104 on June 28th.

Your health could be a problem this year, Nobby. If you suffer from constant ringing in the ears, I'd advise you to take that stupid hat off.

Something is gnawing at your mind, so get your head checked for woodworm. Beware of an offer of employment in a TV series - there could be strings attached, and you may find yourself cut off and unable to stand up for yourself.

Nigel Hampster

'Beat it' Michael tells critics

A CERTAIN singing superstar held a press conference recently to hit back at those who were spreading rumours that the pressures of fame have driven him nuts. There is no truth in these smears, and anyone who says differently is an absolute honk! twibble banana wombat nugga-nugga, said Michael, before announcing his surprise engagement to his manager's hat-stand.

Peachy-keen actor

Dustin Hoffman with some of the cast. Dustin Hoffman, who played a woman in the film 'Turbid', is taking his remarkable acting career even further by playing the lead in the follow-up, 'Freaky'. The dedicated actor, who has had his legs shaved off for the role, said, 'It's a plum part, and I'm hoping to really get under the skin of the character.'

Sean free

Porky pop-star Hamadonna denies that she is putting on weight. In fact, I got rid of 200lb, or 145 lb recently, she told me. 'I backed my husband out of the house.'

Jolly Roger...

Roger Boor, star of the 'James Bond' films, is tired of being type-cast, so he's volunteered to play the part of Long-John Silver in a remake of 'Treasure Island'. The part he's playing is the pirate's false leg. This should prove that my acting isn't wooden, creaked Roger.

Back catalogue

After the chart-topping success of her remake of her old hit 'Shout', pop-star Lookoo plans to release a brand set of her most popular material. She's convinced that there's a market for crackles of old catalogue adverts.

Teddy scare

The young Prince who recently gave up the tough military life denies that he is a big right at heart. 'I even got rid of my teddy-bear recently,' he told me. 'I had to, he went on, 10 days beating me in pillow-fights.'

Thin tall story

Holy-poly comedian Boardard Manning has gone on a diet. When I met him in his favourite restaurant, he said, 'It's very hard. I feel like I could eat a horse, but I'm trying to cut down.' And he did - he ordered a small Shetland Pony and left the hooves. Well done, Boardard!

Space Case

Ceith Chegwyn is in the sequel to director Steven Spielberg's most popular film. The new movie is called 'Close Encounters of the Nerd Kind'.

PS

Suave, debonair Nigel Hampster, witty pig about town, has got the chop from his job as a gossip-columnist with best-selling magazine 'Oink!', after Uncle Pigg found out that Nigel makes up all the 'facts' in his column, and the most famous person he knows is himself.

Royalties

Royalties are dreadful famous people. If one of them falls off a horse or gets kidnaps it is big news in the papers. Royalties usually do silly things like play polo (a game named after a mint, which proves how stupid it is). Good job, too, 'cos if they did anything important, like discovering a cure for warty amputees, we'd never hear the end of it!

Polytishers

Every few years, grown-ups vote for who they would like to get sent to 'parliament', which is a kind of lousy-bin where 'polytishers' get locked up and left to shout at each other. This is called 'democracy', and we should be verry grateful for it, as it keeps these strange people off the streets.

TV Sports Stars

If you can throw darts without falling over, tell the difference between red and white snooker balls, or play Croquet down fields without dying of boredom, you can become a TV Sports Star. This is a grate apportunity over the old days, when you had to be fit or skillful to be a famous sportsman.

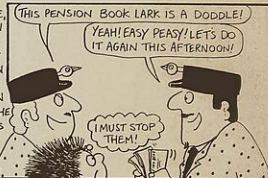

TV Personalities

People not are famous merely for being famous. I mean, Terry Hogan can't acknowledge sing, dance or tell jokes or anything. He gets sept millions of pounds for sitting in a chair and rabbiting on. When Terry Hogan's grandd started doing that, they got him in a house.

HARRY THE HEAD-SECRET AGENT.

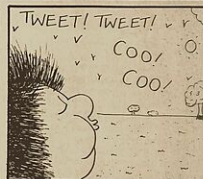

IN THE LAST EPISODE, HARRY-HAVING BEEN RECRUITED INTO THE RANKS OF THE NASTY BUDGIE ORGANISATION (IN ORDER TO SPY ON THEM) HAS JUST BEEN WITNESS TO ONE OF THE MOST WICKED CRIMES EVER: OPERATION PENSION BOOK!

SHORTLY...

LATER THAT DAY...

The 'Oink!' Instant Fame Celebrity Scrapbook

You're it! Now YOU TOO can become a famous star! With the Instant Fame Celebrity Scrapbook, your days of being an obscure nonentity are over. All you need to transform yourself into a glittering showbiz personality are a few photographs of yourself, a pair of scissors, a pen, and a pot of glue. Just stick your face into the spaces on the pictures below, and fill your name in on the dotted lines. It's so simple even Gary Davis could do it (though - come to think of it - nothing's that simple). Then, simply tear out the page and leave it casually around the house. Your friends and relatives will be green with envy. They will never guess that you are not a famous celebrity VIP!

RECORD REVIEW
by Tim Rice-Pudding

"Singsongs"
Nipper 3345 CD
There can only be one word to describe the new album by _____ and that is brilliant.

I always suspected, even when I was a simple bomp player with Fleetwood Big Mac in the early 70's that it was only a matter of time before such an obviously vast talent created a truly great record. And here it is!

This brilliant megastar has written, played and produced all the songs on this fantastic album. I read on the sleeve notes that Paul McCartney was brought in at one point to un-block the toilet in the studio.
